Instructions

Objective: Individually create a detailed design treatment for an original board game, covering the concept, gameplay mechanics, visual style, target audience, and inclusivity features. This foundational work will lead to further development phases.

1. Work on the below tasks (recommended to do in the order provided). 2, After you have the core concepts/sketches seek external feedback from 3 different people, preferably people from your target audience
2. Once all items are filled out, ensure this worksheet is saved and explore the PDF
3. Upload the PDF to a branch called `DesignTreatment` on GitHub
4. Create a pull request to main, and complete the merge
5. Upload the same PDF to Canvas

Section #1: (2 pts.) Crafting The Game Treatment

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (0.29 pts.) - Possible Title(s) of the Game

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Propose fitting title(s) reflecting the game's essence
- Explanation of title(s) choices

Your Response:

- Nightfall: the game really starts when the night comes around, gives spooky vibes
- Wentiko: the monster of the game is a Wendeigo, Wentiko is just another name for it

Task #2 (0.29 pts.) - Game Setting

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the setting

Your Response:

Takes place in a vast creepy forest. Set in the summer, great for camping. The only thing you hear is the trees rustling as the wind blows. Although when night falls you start hearing scurrying, whispers, and low growls. You gather wood to set in the center while you and friends sit around it.

Task #3 (0.29 pts.) - Game Characters

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the characters

Your Response:

Every character played is a camper, you can customize what your camper looks like. No one has better stats than another camper. Everything you get is rolled by chance.

Task #4 (0.29 pts.) - Game Theme

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the theme

Your Response:

The game theme is suvival horror where you have limited tools, rising danger, impending doom, and a creature that gets stronger every night. There is social pressures as the game escalates pushing players to make quick decisions. Another theme is resource management which determine whether you live through the night.

Task #7 (0.29 pts.) - Game Mechanics

Progress: 100%

Details:

- List each mechanic with supporting details to clearly portray the mechanic

Your Response:

- Fire needs at least 3 logs to stay alive
  - if not enough logs monster attacks 2x damage
  - Fire loses 20% every round
- Player and monster starts with 100% health
- Monster and player rolls D8 for damage
  - Player can only role if they have a weapon
  - weapon has x amount of times of use until it breaks
- As more rounds go on the monster attacks heavier, deals more damage
  - [0.5x damage 2nd round, 1x damage 3rd round and up]
- You have to decide and make good decisions in what items to use in order to survive
  - You can give away one card to another player your choosing/decision each round
- Sleeping bag → allows you to skip the night (1x), no attack/damage round
- Flashlight → blinds monster and you take half damage or none (2x)
- Fire logs → adds to fire life (fire needs at least 3 logs to stay alive)
- Knife → uses D8 damage (3x)

- Stick → uses D4 damage (1x)
- Gun → uses D10 damage (5x)
- Snacks → heals you candy bar 10%, pizza 20%, hobo meal 30%, hamburger 35%

Section #2: (1 pt.) Target Audience Analysis

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (1 pt.) - Identify and analyze the game's target audience

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Clearly identify the target audience
- Include analysis of demographics, interests, and gaming habits
- Justification of appeal to target audience

Your Response:

Nightfall will be a fun game to those who likes playing horror and survival games. Good for teens and adults (15-35), old enough to play horror, comfortable in rules using dice, probability, and resource tracking. Its a game for those who are beginner-intermediate level players and enjoy simple rules but deep decision making. Nightfall fits players who prefer playing 30-60 min sessions, replayable, and fast-pace. Nightfall appeals to this audience since its easy to learn with simple dice rolls and item effects, and it deals with lots of luck and randomness.

Section #3: (1 pt.) Accessibility And Inclusivity Strategies

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (1 pt.) - Outline strategies to make your game accessible and inclusive

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Include considerations for diverse abilities
- Outline inclusivity strategies for a wide audience
- Discuss implementation of noted inclusivity strategies without compromising gameplay

Your Response:

Every card will have a high contrast card graphics of what the card is and will have a short description (in big, readable font) explaining what it does and what dice to roll if needed. There will be content warnings clearly stating themes, of danger, violence, and horror creature. The only things needed are standard dice and cards. These strategies stay the same without compromising the gameplay, just makes the game easier and equal.

Section #4: (2 pts.) Pitch Preparation

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (2 pts.) - Pitch

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Summarize concept and theme
- Compellingly highlight target audience and unique selling points
- Emphasize how the game stands out in the current market

Your Response:

Nightfall is a fast, tense survival horror tabletop game where players face 7 nights in the woods while a creature hunts you every night, growing stonger every round. The theme is mainly scarce resources, pressure towards decisions, and whether to trust your friends or save yourself. Every choice (attack, heal, defend, or betray) will shape who survives the longest. Nightfall is built for players ages 15-35 who enjoys horror and survival games, quick sessions, dice driven combat, resource management, and social strategies. Nightfall's unique selling points are the 7 night countdown , which creates a tight, escalating story. The fire adds a survival clock as well. Players can play together or compete to survive. The simple dice system keeps the gameplay fast while maintaining high stakes. Lastly, you can replay as many times through randomized starter packs, item decks, and social dynamics making no two games the same. Nightfall stands out by combining a countdown, escalating monster difficulty, fire-based survival, optional betrayal, and accessible format. It is easy to learn but hard to master.

Section #6: (2 pts.) External Feedback

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (0.67 pts.) - Feedback 1

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Note the person's name and relation to you
- Summarize feedback focusing on concept, mechanics, and style
- Reflect on how the feedback will be used to refine the design

Your Response:

Name(relation): Matt(friend) Feedback summary: confused about how the game would keep running Reflection: I can think about adding a time frame, like 7 day camping trip instead of it forever. If you dont kill the monster by the 7th night you die.

Task #2 (0.67 pts.) - Feedback 2

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Note the person's name and relation to you
- Summarize feedback focusing on concept, mechanics, and style
- Reflect on how the feedback will be used to refine the design

Your Response:

Name(relation): George(friend) Feedback summary: questioned how many cards are drawn during the day time Reflection: I havent thought about this so I came up with rolling a D4. You get as many cards from what number you roll

Task #3 (0.67 pts.) - Feedback 3

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Note the person's name and relation to you
- Summarize feedback focusing on concept, mechanics, and style
- Reflect on how the feedback will be used to refine the design

Your Response:

Name(relation): Ant(friend) Feedback summary: Wanted to expand the concept of the monster dealing more damage each round to make it more intense by day 7
Reflection: I made a level up to the damage system for each round to go higher. 1st night is standard rolling, 2nd night 0.5+ damage, 3rd night and up 1+ damage each round. This makes it easy to nightmare level when you survive more nights, making the game more tense and fun.
